Course Description

(Please note the course time is 3 hours)

This course is suitable for anyone who is looking to develop their skills through a variety of projects, all of which aim to expand individual creative practice. The focus is broad covering drawing, painting and 3D work, with the intention of individuals gaining a stronger sense of their artistic voice, through the methods, media and processes that are most suited to individual artwork.

Directed sessions will cover drawing, tone, colour, composition and all with the emphasis on creative thinking, through set projects that could be undertaken through a number of routes.

Alternate weeks will visit work in progress, some of which may well come out of the set projects but will always seek to allow for individual development of a project, idea, revisiting or completion of work, sometimes in relation to the previous set task.

The course is suitable for those who are looking for tutored and group direction to expand their practice in a lively way, or to build confidence through creative experimentation and play.
